Children's Ballet Theater to Give Performance March 6 in Burlingame

"Hansel and Gretel" and "Peter and the Wolf" will come to Burlingame Saturday, March 6, when the Children's Ballet Theater of San Francisco presents the performance at the Burlingame High School Auditorium at 2:30 o'clock.

The whimsical tale of the lost children who seek refuge in the home of the witch, and the gay bravado of Peter in his capture of the wolf is directed by Evelyn Wenger, former premiere danseuse with Adolph Bolm. It is the third of the performances presented by the newly organized Children's Ballet Theater, whose purpose is to furnish children background and experience in the presentation of all forms of the dance combined with a program for their entertainment. The ballet's "Cinderella, Little Bo-Peep, the Bluebird and Peter and the Wolf," were first presented in June and in November at the Marine Memorial Theater in San Francisco.

By popular request Miss Wenger is presenting the third of the series in Burlingame and again in Palo Alto in April.

PCA to Open Rodeo Office

Permanent office headquarters for the Peninsula Celebrations Assn. will be opened at the rodeo grounds on Lower Broadway, Secy. Mgr. J. Carl Ferrell announced today.

Ferrell said that Miss Lorraine Dwyer, office assistant, would be at the headquarters each Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. to supply any information requested.

Bayshore Realignment Plan Goes to County Planners

State and county officials will be asked tomorrow afternoon to set the Bayshore Freeway line closer to the bay in the East Palo Alto area.

The hearing is scheduled for 4 p.m. before the San Mateo County Planning Commission, which will start its monthly meeting at 2 p.m. in the supervisors chambers at the courthouse.

The request for such a hearing was made by the Bayshore Highway Committee of East Palo Alto. Its secretary, Robert P. Utter, said that the vice chairman, E. A. McGinn, is to explain the residents' plans. At the request of the group, a representative of the State Division of Highways will attend. He is M. E. Cessna of the State Highway Engineer's Office.

Planning officials, who were asked to consider a new course for the freeway, stated that opposition was expected from other residents in the southern part of the county.

The easterly route for the freeway is urged by the residents' group because it fears that the freeway would impair values by acting as a barrier, planners said.

Menlo Firemen Halt Home Blaze

Firemen from the Menlo Park Fire Dist. arrived at the George F. Price residence, 288 First St., Menlo Oaks, just in time Sunday afternoon to check a blaze which was spreading rapidly from its original defective flue.

A neighbor noticed smoke pouring from the Price residence and called the fire department at 3:34 p.m., firemen said.

The blaze had eaten through lath and wallpaper and was threatening an entire wall when firemen arrived. Damage has been estimated at approximately $25.

GARDEN: Have You Sent For Free Packet of Seeds?

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

Have you sent for your free packet of Potomac Snap Beans? The offer is open for a very limited time and I'm certain you'll enjoy the snap beans from the 10 foot row this packet will plant. With any luck at all, you should get 20 pounds of beans from the 10 foot row—and 20 pounds of fresh crisp snap beans will make many a meal more enjoyable, and economical. Send today! Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Rolly Langley, Redwood City Tribune.

Maybe Mrs. Jack Weyler won't send for beans. Perhaps she's too put out with me. She writes: "I do resent it when you say African violets 'are very sensitive.' I raised about 200 plants last year in my glass house (an amateur) under all temperatures (except freezing) and they only ask for a reasonable amount of water, lukewarm in winter preferred. And to keep them blooming you should put them near a window, give them plenty of light, not much sun, and leave them there, and they should bloom almost the whole year."

"I have the blue, pink and white violets," Mrs. Weyler continues, "and the white ones are in bloom now. Some of my plants bloom three or four years without resting. They get no heat at night in my home, but this winter has been too cold to raise them in the glass house without heat."

"African violets are my hobby and I would like people to realize they aren't hard to raise and give a lot of pleasure to anyone who cares for flowers."

Now to placate Mrs. Weyler I must agree with her. Of course African Violets are easy to raise, once you get the hang of it. And so often people get discouraged because they buy African Violets that have been forced into blooming, and have been producing for a long time. Then, when the plants take a much needed rest, the novice becomes discouraged.

It's true that many green-thumbed who've had good luck with most flowers have found some difficulty with African Violets. But they are really easy. You have Mrs. Weyler's word for it.

"Upon trying to get some definite 'dope' about gypsum I find myself in a quandary because no two answers are the same," writes Lloyd E. McClellan, who is interested in professional gardening. "I have been told that it doesn't affect the pH in the soil, that it has an alkaline effect on the soil, and the other answer was that it has an acid reaction on the soil."

"It would be wonderful to hear that it does not affect the soil in any way except to break it down for easier cultivation and drainage. Then one could use it in quantity on heavy soil before planting and seeding. But I doubt if this can be done without changing the pH."

"This all came up when I questioned a landscape architect over what I thought was an indiscriminate use of gypsum. After calling the University of California and two manufacturing chemists and getting three different answers the obvious conclusion is that they can't all be right. It is very likely however, the parties questioned didn't give much thought to the answers they were giving."

"Is agricultural lime and gypsum the same?"

Well to answer that last question first, let's emphasize that agricultural lime and gypsum are not the same. Lime is very alkaline and contains no sulphur.

Gypsum does contain sulphur, which neutralizes the alkalinity of the lime in gypsum. The balance between lime and sulphur in high grade gypsum is just about perfect, so that for all practical purposes the gypsum doesn't affect the pH of the soil.

You can use great amounts of gypsum without damaging any plants, or materially changing the pH of the soil. I know, because I have done so. I have used gypsum at the rate of 400 pounds per 1000 square feet, which is four times the amount usually necessary to put a heavy soil in good condition.

You might think of gypsum as lime to which enough sulphur has been added to counteract the alkalinity. Of course that's not the actual way it's made, but close enough to give you the idea.

For this reason, if you have an acid soil (not common in these parts, except in shaded areas which have been treated), you must use agricultural lime to make the pH of that acid soil neutral. Gypsum won't do it. Gypsum won't affect the pH of your soil enough to bother about.

Eileen Lambert Entertains Saturday Club

Miss Elaine Lambert entertained the Saturday Night Club of St. Peter's Episcopal Church at its recent meeting. Mrs. R. H. Tibbetts and Mrs. F. W. Thompson were cohostesses.

During a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. Wayne V. Kenaston, president, it was decided to hold a rummage sale on Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6. The location of the sale will be announced later by Mrs. Harry Feldscher, chairman of the sale.

Members and friends are asked to donate knickknacks, clothing, bedding and furniture. Articles to be donated should be brought to the parish house by Wednesday, March 3, or they will be called for by members. Pick-up service may be obtained by calling Mrs. Feldscher at EMerson 6-4333; Mrs. W. A. Harper at EMerson 6-1358; Mrs. Waldo Stone at EMerson 6-4020; or Mrs. Paul D. Surber at EMerson 6-4488.

Highlighting the evening was a demonstration of some of the newest dance steps by Miss Cleo Williams and John Syracuse, who are with a Burlingame dance studio.

Miss Williams and Mr. Syracuse were also judges of the dance contest held during the evening. The fox trot was won by Mrs. Kenaston and Percy Wilson and the one step by Mrs. Wilson and W. A. Harper. The final contest was a waltz which ended with both couples tying for winning place.

THREE OF THE MEMBERS of the Redwood City Woman's Club who got into the spirit of things yesterday afternoon at the club's annual jinks are Mrs. Clifford Ward, who won a prize for the best dressed man present; and Mrs. Cutler Brown, who doubled as piano player in the Haywire Orchestra and actress in the skits.

Ladd Yager Celebrates His Fourth Birthday

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Yager on Edgehill Dr. in San Carlos was literally transformed into a circus for the birthday party of their son, Ladd. He was celebrating his fourth birthday. Special guest of the afternoon was Koko the Clown, in complete costume, played by Ladd's 9-year-old sister, Jolly.

Ladd's guests spent the afternoon trying to pin large ears on a likeness of Koko and tossing rings into his mouth.

Ladd's younger brother, Byron, was costumed as the circus' little man, "Handy Andy."

"The Round-Up" is the name that has been given to the program and party which will be the activity highlight of the year for seven Junior-Hi-Y clubs at the North Fair Oaks Community Church Saturday at 6 p.m.

Executive YMCA Secy. Kenneth T. Osman announced that 80 seventh and eighth grade boys, members of the constituent groups in the Sequoia District are being invited to the event. In addition to a ranch-style supper, the participants will engage in a series of games, including a "quiz program."

Motion pictures will be shown, several short talks will be heard with recent announcements of Jr. Hi-Y activities, and club delegations will be introduced.

Clubs and the names of sponsors of each are as follows: Methodist Jr. Hi-Y, Earl Whitaker; Crusader, Thor Madsen; Eagles, the Rev. Randolph; Spillers, Art Graves; San Carlos Central, Oliver Eitzen; Menlo Central, Charles Woodard, and Triangles, Phil Mitchell.

Arrangements have been completed for the Jr. Hi-Y basketball elimination series which will get underway on Thursday night of this week at San Carlos Central School gym. Phil Mitchell is directing the games throughout the next six weeks of play. The San Carlos Jr. Hi-Y will play Spillers in the first game of the eliminations.

Three YMCA affiliated clubs hold regular meetings on Thursday nights in the Central School at San Carlos.

O. H. Olson of Menlo Park has been selected as the first chief of the Indian Guide unit recently organized in that area. This new organization is to hold ceremonies for their induction into the Sequoia Area Longhouse on Mar. 20. The regular monthly council session of the four Indian Guide Tribes in this region will meet at the YMCA in Redwood City Wednesday, Mar. 3, at 7:30 p.m.

Girl Scouts Evicted, Need Home
The Girl Scouts of the Sequoia Dist. Council are going to have to move—and they have no place to go.

Headquarters for the Girl Scouts for approximately five years has been on the second floor of a county-owned two-story white building at the corner of Middlefield Rd. and Marshall St. Plans are being made for expansion of county jail offices, and the Girl Scouts will have to move to make way for the expansion.

Eviction notice had been received today from County Executive Frederick Peterson. The Girl Scouts have been using the building rent free.

A committee has been named to seek new headquarters. On the committee are Mrs. B. G. Berglund, Mrs. D. D. Bohannon, Mrs. C. G. Uhlenberg and Mrs. Fred Blase.

San Jose State To Present Opera in May
"Robin Hood," the colorful opera by Reginald de Koven, will be presented May 20, 21 and 22 by an all-student cast at San Jose State College. It will be a joint production by the music and drama departments and will be the first one of its kind since 1937 when "Peer Gynt" was given in connection with the diamond jubilee of the college.

The best vocal and dramatic talent on the campus is being recruited for this production and special attention is being given to costuming and staging. Dr. Hugh Gillis, head of the drama department, will be the director with Dr. Lyle Downey, head of the music department, leading the orchestra. Miss Maurine Thompson will coach the soloists, Miss Frederike L. Moore will direct the dances, E. A. Thormadsen will train the chorus and J. Wendell John and James Lioi will supervise the staging.

Menlo School Addition Begins

Osman. Purpose of the corps is to train 15, 16 and 17-year-old high school boys to assume leadership roles in connection with the activities of the various clubs as well as the services to be rendered in the "Y" building.

Members of the house committee of the Sequoia branch will hold their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, Mar. 2 at noon. Chairman of this committee is Laurie Duncan.

An active group of laymen from the Sequoia District are directing efforts toward a large camping program in the area this summer. With a goal of 140 for a special period at Camp Jones Gulch and 25 for the high mountain outing for ten days at Camp McCoy near Pinecrest, a real job of recruiting leaders and groups is at hand. With Wilbur Doxsee, as chairman and Bert Werder and O. H. Olson as committeemen, the early promotion of the camping program is announced for Apr. 1. A stay-at-home camp for younger boys is being contemplated for several weeks early in the Summer.

The annual meeting of the Pacific Southwest YMCA Council will be held at San Jose on Friday and Saturday, Mar. 5 and 6. Delegates from the Sequoia branch are Thom Rhorabaugh, and Al Sagehorn.

Menlo Park Plans Improvement Fete

Committee members who will work with service clubs in planning the affair will be Spencer Fish, chairman; Dan H. Van De Sande, and R. S. Ferguson.

Daniel Hayes, president of the chamber, appointed Mario Paccioretti, John McCracken and Mrs. Emma J. Stribling new directors of the organization.

George Ciesse Jr. was appointed head of a committee to conduct a subscription campaign to partially finance Menlo Park's $350 share of the cost of bringing the Freedom Train to this area. Larry Johnston, Mrs. Stribling and Paccioretti will serve with him.

Chamber members chose Monday evening, April 12, as the date of a dinner meeting at the Marie Antoinette Restaurant.

Blonde Loose On Bayshore!
Police are looking for a beautiful blonde reported seen in a white nightgown running barefoot along Bayshore Hwy. in San Mateo shortly after midnight.

A motorist, Guy Glaimo, 514 S. Humboldt St., San Mateo, told police the girl, about 20 or 22 years old, was running away from two sailors.

Skeptical at first, police questioned Glaimo at length and conceded this happened as he told it.

Glaimo, seeing the barefoot beauty, made a U turn in his car and caught up with her. She had a pair of scissors in one hand.

Two sailors drew up in a car and one tried to grab her.

"She screamed and begged me to prevent them from taking her. One of the sailors told me, 'Take off, Mac, if you want to stay healthy!'"

Glaimo struggled with the men. The girl ran into the highway. A car which swerved to miss her stopped and the girl got in.

"It sped north. The sailors jumped back into their car and followed."

Glaimo made it a three-car speed run, got the license number and then lost the sailors' car.

Police are looking for the denouement.

Planning Group Asks Plan to Avoid Chaos

San Mateo County, in the center of one of the nation's largest building booms, must adhere to a master plan for expansion to eliminate possibility of chaotic conditions, the County Planning Commission reported today.

The statement was made in a biennial report for the 1945-47 period completed recently by the planning commission staff.

"They'll all go home after the war," California residents used to say of the soldiers and war workers.

"But they didn't," the planning commission states. "They kept on coming."

The state's population is increasing at the rate of 1300 a day, and the commission is directing its activities to help absorb the new residents in an orderly fashion.

The principal means by which haphazard development is avoided, the commission reports, is through (1) a long-range comprehensive plan, and (2) zoning controls.

Population increase in the county has been phenomenal, the report stated, with about 1000 persons moving into each square mile of the Bay Area each year. To provide guidance in construction the master plan was devised, to include land use, streets and highways, and recreation.

Zoning is called the principal protection of property owners. It keeps business out of residential areas and provides proper sites for industries.

"Life is pleasantly suburban on the Peninsula," the report states. "Most people live in detached, single-family homes with sun and garden space. Most of the residential areas are zoned R-1 (one dwelling per lot) in keeping with our way of life."

Over crowding has been prevented by zoning, by limiting the number of houses per lot.

"Although pressure to provide more housing is very great, it is generally recognized that two-family dwellings, or additional residences per lot tend to change the character of the neighborhood and depreciate surrounding property values," according to the report.

The county's most populous areas already are zoned, and a new unit of the land use plan will cover the Coastside from Half Moon Bay to Pescadero and to the La Honda area. The southern part of the county, embracing the forest and park areas, is under interim zoning, which means that the commission must rule on any proposed commercial use.

Other purposes of zoning are to the establishment of setback lines, regulation of accessory building sites and fence heights, and restriction of objectionable animals.

One of the most important ways of getting desirable expansion is through subdivisions. Fifty of these were approved in the 1945-47 period, compared with 25 in the previous years dating from 1938.

"A new subdivision is a chance to leave behind the blight and the mistakes of the past," the report declares. "To the developer it is an opportunity to apply new ideas to an unbroken piece of land and to the buyer it may mean a more pleasant way of life."

Subdivisions in the county have been regulated since 1932. Specifications are provided as to lot and block size; street widths, grades and curves; sidewalks and street pavement; crossings, by-pass streets; drainage; sewage disposal and conformance to the street and highway plan.

A good subdivision, the report states, is a neighborhood unit which should be integrated around an elementary school. It should have a shopping district and adequate parking areas and a street pattern which follows the contour of land and is designed to bypass through-traffic.

Pedestrian ways, cul-de-sac streets for safety and play areas should be provided.

"Streets following the easy contour of land, thereby slowing traffic and making the residential areas safer for children, are preferable to the grid system, where every street may become a race track."

Waste often develops when buildings have to be torn down to widen a highway. Far-reaching plans are necessary, in order to foresee years in advance which streets are to be widened into arterials. Setback lines for buildings thus must be established early.

San Mateo County adopted its master plan of streets and highways in 1932. It is based on population forecasts and study of traffic loads. When expensive structures and paving on roads have to be abandoned later for a new alignment, the taxpayer foots the bill, the report declares.

Buildings fronting on highways must be regulated as to elevation. Section and plan drawings are required by the commission, and during the period covered about 600 persons submitted sketches of proposed buildings. In cases where the elevation sketches indicated that the proposed buildings would detract from the appearance of highway margins, the commission re-

SM County Site of Meetings To Discuss Juvenile Crimes

San Mateo County has been chosen for the first of a series of meetings sponsored by the State Board of Equalization to combat juvenile delinquency "because of the enlightened interest previously manifested by city and county officials."

This was stated in a letter Monday to San Mateo Chief of Police Robert E. O'Brien from George R. Reilly of the First District, State Board of Equalization.

"The problem of teen-age misconduct is a national one, and it

Richmond Pair Injured In Coastside Accident

Mrs. Marian L. Beall, 25, of Richmond, and her 5-year-old son, Ronnie, sustained minor injuries Monday night when the car Mrs. Beall was driving crashed into a parked automobile in Sharp Park.

RC Builder Near Death In Palm Springs Crash

Joseph Lacey, partner in the Redwood City building contracting firm of Lacey & White, was near death in Community Hospital in Palm Springs Monday following an accident Saturday.

Lacey, who resided at 1291 Fifth Ave., was driving with his wife, Fay, near Palm Springs when their automobile struck a moving freight train, according to California Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Lacey suffered cuts and internal injuries, but is expected to recover. However, hospital officials said that Lacey, who was still unconscious shortly before noon today, had a possible skull fracture.

Lacey is a former Santa Clara University athlete and is associated here with his brother, Robert.

Eight persons were injured, none of them seriously, in week-end automobile accidents in San Mateo County, the California Highway Patrol reported Monday.

Joseph Gemignan, 58, and Olivia Gemignan, 46, of San Francisco suffered sprains, bruises and minor cuts when the car driven by Gemignan blew its left rear tire, skidded and rolled over.

The accident occurred Sunday afternoon on Skyline Blvd. about a mile south of Alemany Blvd. Extension, near the San Francisco County line. The couple was treated at Mission Emergency Hospital.

Eight-year-old Alice May Mooneyham suffered minor bruises when the car driven by Cpl. Vernon R. Mooneyham, 32, of Vallejo, was involved in a three-car rear end collision Sunday evening on Bayshore Hwy. north of Harbor Rd., Belmont.

Mooneyham's sedan crashed into the rear of a car driven by Joseph Harris, 26, of Oakland, pushing it into the back of the coupe operated by Jacquelyn L.

Neft, 21, of Crockett, the CHP reported.

Terrissa R. Hwk, 29, a Wave, was treated at the Moffett Field dispensary after the car she was driving was struck from the rear by a coupe driven by Edwin J. Cooksey, 48, a San Mateo contractor. The accident was on Bayshore Hwy. at Harbor Rd., Belmont, Saturday.

Two persons were injured in a three-car collision Saturday afternoon on El Camino Real, and Mission Rd., South San Francisco.

Mrs. Catherine Swope, 66, San Francisco housewife, was treated at Junipero Serra Hospital for a fractured rib, possible fractures of both ankles and head injuries. Her condition is said to be satisfactory Monday.

William Swope, 71, her husband, was treated for injuries to his right shoulder.

John J. Swope, 16, a son of the couple, was driving the car. He was not injured. Dan Collins, 37, of 633 Mission Rd., San Bruno, and Henry Tom, 47, San Francisco, drivers of the other two cars, also escaped without injury.

Charles R. Evans, 32, 2215 Cooley Ave., Palo Alto, was arrested Saturday at 9:19 p.m. on a charge of felony drunken driving, and his passenger, Manuel Fernandez, San Francisco, was taken to Palo Alto Hospital.

The car Evans was driving crashed into the rear of a truck driven by Melvin H. Robie, 42, 58 Oak Ave., on Bayshore Hwy. 253 feet south of the Bayshore Tractor Car, police reported.

Redwood City Police Sgt. E. G. (Pat) Fogarty said Evans was later released from the San Mateo County jail on $500 bail.

Fernandez was treated for cuts on his face at Palo Alto Hospital and then sent to Community Hospital from where he was sent home yesterday.

Both vehicles were moving northward at the time of the crash.

Gales ranging up to 50 miles an hour lashed the length of San Mateo County Sunday night, ripping branches from trees but doing comparatively little damage.

Minor power failures spotted about the county were reported by Pacific Gas and Electric Co., but damage was quickly repaired.

The weather bureau at Mills Field reported that the heaviest winds were from 5 to 9 p.m. yesterday, averaging between 30 and 45 miles an hour and reaching the peak of 50.

Power was cut off at Mills Field for 14 minutes, but no damage to planes or delays in schedules were reported.

The high wind blew over a 150-foot shed of the County Road Department in Redwood City, pushing it some 30 feet onto old equipment.

The Pacific Ocean, which last month sent heavy breakers curling toward beach homes near Half Moon Bay, again was high and turbulent.

Dep. Sheriff Don Hartnett, whose Half Moon Bay home is at the water's edge, reported that the waves were breaking against a wooden bulkhead which he has erected to protect his home from the waves.

Last month the ocean threatened to swallow Hartnett's house, as the waves ate away the bank to within five feet of the building. Since then Hartnett has moved his house back 35 feet, with the use of skids.

Waves were high and whitecaps plentiful along both the north and south ends of the coastline, according to reports from Dep. County Fire Warden Earl Peterson of Rockaway Beach and Neil Overacker of Pescadero.

Overacker said that the rough water has not deterred fishermen, who are casting from the shore in the Pescadero area. The holiday has brought hundreds of fishermen to the area this weekend, he stated.

Ernst Brandsten, unofficial weatherman at Searsville Lake, estimated that winds in the Woodside area averaged between 35 and 40 miles an hour. Other than falling limbs, little damage was reported.

Weathermen stated that winds between 39 and 55 miles an hour constitute a gale; 55 to 75 a storm, and above that a hurricane.

SM Man Held By Belmont Police

Florian Felix Fregon, 35, 118 Darcy St., San Mateo, was arrested by Belmont police early this morning on drunk driving charges after Fregon stopped his car to watch officers write out a ticket for another motorist, later charged with drunk driving.

Officer James Moore said he had stopped a car driven by Mrs. Pearl U. Small, 45-year-old housewife who lives at 1036 Blandford Blvd. at 2 a.m. when Fregon's car pulled up to the police car on El Camino Real.

Moore said he decided both drivers should be given drunk tests and they were brought in to county jail, where both were charged with drunk driving.

Fregon and Mrs. Small were held on $150 bail and are to appear before Judge Gus Russo on Mar. 2.

City to Offer More Bonds For Bidding

Redwood City councilmen Monday afternoon instructed city officials to draw up a program for the issuance of another block of 1944 civic improvement bonds.

City Atty. Cuthbert Currie predicted, unofficially that the city could best authorize the selling of some $300,000 worth of bonds in possibly three stages, $100,000 at a time.

City Mr. E. A. Rollison said that funds from a first issue of $200,000 were running short and that more would be necessary.

In 1944 voters approved the issuing of $998,000 worth of bonds for civic improvement projects.

Rollison said additional bond funds would be necessary to pay for a $10,000 Steinberger St. fill job. (The street leads to a site where a new sewage disposal plant will be constructed.)

A $300,000 land acquisition project (also mainly for the sewage plant), a $42,000 recreation building construction project now under way at Community Park, and a $14,000 Community and Hawes Park recreation project. In addition, he said, $50,000 should be obtained for street construction and repair jobs.

City Assessor John J. Brophy have this accounting of what the original $200,000 was spent for: $3000 for bridges, $44,522.88 for Community Park acquisition, $2901.56 for a Hudson St. creek and channel project, $2050.97 for the fire department, $25,000 for the acquisition of a site across from the city hall where a police station will someday be constructed, $27,037.40 for parking lot acquisition and improvement, $10,313.62 for preliminary sewage plant work.

Brophy said that $35,543.34 was still on hand from the issue and that $798.36 had been set aside for deferred expense on the other projects.

The remainder, $48,831.87, he continued, was used to purchase government bonds from the water department. He explained that although the water department was short of ready cash, it did have government bonds which has been purchased while the department was flush.

These bonds, he stated, were purchased with 1944 bond money in order to give the water department ready cash.

The council also: Decided to lay over for further investigation the awarding of a contract for the Steinberger St. fill job.

Approved the hooking into a Jefferson Ave. sewer line by South Kensington Square residents provided those involved agreed to join an assessment district which is planned to furnish the area with city sewers.

OK Rezoning In Belmont

The rezoning for business of three lots in the Homeview subdivision of Belmont was approved this week by the Belmont City Council after a discussion of more than two hours.

Mayor Harry T. Walden pointed out that the council in 1946 had approved the establishment of a business district east of the Southern Pacific tracks and said that the ordinance should have been introduced at that time.

Atherton Mayor James B. Howell and Councilman Charles Merrill will seek reelection in the April 13 municipal election.

The two took out nomination petitions yesterday, according to Howard Boren, city clerk.

No additional candidates have appeared in the Menlo Park Council race, and one possible candidate has announced his decision not to run.

Steve E. Butler, 718 Menlo Ave., mentioned as a possible candidate for one of the two council posts to be filled in April, today announced that he will not seek election.

"I feel I can serve the best interest of the community and cooperate with present city officials in my present capacity as a private citizen," Butler said. He has been active in efforts to secure a new location for the San Mateo County branch library now housed on the second floor of the city hall.

Councilmen Edward Church and Daniel Hayes have already indicated that they will seek election to the posts they have filled since last December. They were appointed to replace Dr. Carl Noller and Dr. Robert Rhodes who resigned Dec. 5.

Two Menlo Park officials have also taken out nomination petitions. They are Mrs. Margaret Becker, city clerk, and Mrs. Frances Maloney, city treasurer.

$1,000,000 Broadway Building Project Slated to Begin Within Next Five Weeks

PROPOSED BROADWAY BUILDING—This is the architect's drawing of the completed $1,000,000 project to be constructed on Broadway between Jefferson Ave. and Middlefield Rd. replacing Central School.

Construction is scheduled to begin within the next five weeks on one of the largest business buildings in Redwood City history.

A $1,000,000 project is planned which will house four stores along Broadway between Jefferson Ave. and Middlefield Rd., where the present Central School is being torn down.

The work will start not later than Apr. 1, according to Willis E. Ayer, one of four owners of the project. Others connected with the venture are A. G. Keney, Irving Kay and Albert Ichelson.

Ayer said that if construction plans are carried out according to schedule, the building will be ready for occupancy about Oct. 1.

The building will be leased to the following: J. C. Penney Co., which will have 100 feet along Broadway running west from the corner of Jefferson Ave.; a shoe store, Singer Sewing Machine Co. and Scott Burr. The Penney store will include a basement and mezzanine.

The site was purchased about two years ago for approximately $125,000 by Ayer and Ichelson. Construction was delayed until the elementary school district was able to complete new units to house the pupils attending Central School.

In addition to the school building, the old library building, used recently as a Red Cross headquarters and 'teen-age recreation center, and a frame building in the rear used as a child care center, are being torn down to make room for the new business houses.

Though many stores have been modernized during recent years, this is the first new building to be constructed along upper Broadway in more than a decade, Ayer pointed out.

Eleanor M. Maloney Leaves $92,124 Estate

The estate of Eleanor M. Maloney, Redwood City woman who died last Aug. 13, totals $92,124, according to an inventory filed in superior court today.
